

screenreader.net

FREE Learning Days

for blind and partially sighted computer users

Now you're talking!

A talking computer is the modern Braille – a gateway for learning, leisure and work. Over 100,000 people have already downloaded Thunder, the innovative talking software package, available FREE via www.screenreader.net

Now, people in your area with little or no sight can have the opportunity to embrace computer-based informal learning via the web – FOR FREE.

Screenreader.net are offering 50 FREE Learning Days throughout England. Turn over to find out more.

If you are interested in hosting a Learning Day call us on 01733 234441 or email ask@screenreader.net

“Amazing! It opened up a whole new world for me.”

“This has changed my life completely.”

Award-winning Thunder!

Helping blind and partially sighted people to learn in the digital age.

- ☺ Do you work with blind and partially-sighted people?
- ☺ Do you want to welcome blind and partially-sighted people into your organisation?
- ☺ Would you find a telephone helpline specialising in the computing needs of people with little or no sight useful?
- ☺ Would you be interested in hosting a free Learning Day for staff and local blind and partially-sighted people?
- ☺ Would you accept a contribution towards the cost of hosting a Learning Day?
- ☺ Would you like to speak to someone for more information?

Then ring us on 01733 234441 or contact us at ask@screenreader.net

The Learning Revolution Transformation Fund

Screenreader.net has been awarded a generous grant by the Department for Business Innovation and Skills' Transformation Fund. With this award we are able to offer 50 Learning Days – available free to local blind and partially-sighted people as well as the sighted working with them.

We are seeking a positive response from organisations with an appropriate venue and the strong desire to include those with little or no sight within informal learning.

Everyone's a winner

Our free assistive technology is available to everyone, anywhere – children or adults, at school, college, work or home, or in the library. It can make it more affordable for your organisation to fully include blind and partially-sighted people, and to honour its Disability Discrimination Act obligations.

Screenreader.net has an innovative and user-friendly approach to the web and learning – by giving our Thunder talking software away for free!

We are also creating www.help4-me.co.uk, a website stuffed with tutorials so that those with little or no sight can be helped to access and use many websites – including yours.

About us

Screenreader.net is a charity passionate about people with little or no sight benefiting from the talking computer – 21st Century Braille. Screenreader.net are distributors for Thunder, invented by Sensory Software.

The founders of Screenreader.net are a blind couple with a big vision. They know at first hand the challenges of trying to access and use computers in schools, colleges, libraries and work – access that seeing people take for granted. They want to empower visually-impaired people around the world by making Thunder available to everyone – regardless of the ability to pay.

“A brilliant resource for blind people.”

screenreader.net

Tel: 01733 234441

email: ask@screenreader.net

www.screenreader.net